We can't do it without you. Help us build power for working people by becoming a grassroots contributor today.

After years of fueling isolation Meta poured nearly $72 billion into AI, including 'chatbot friends' this year. Instead of providing real answers. Zuckerberg could end up making us even lonelier.

More Perfect Union is an Emmy-winning, nonprofit newsroom whose mission is to build power for working people. Here's what that means: We report on the real struggles and challenges of the working class from a working-class perspective. We attempt to connect those problems to potential solutions. We report on the abuses and wrongdoing of corporate power. And we seek to hold accountable the ultra-rich who have too much power over America's political and economic systems.

These corporations aren't looking to end the loneliness epidemic; they're fueling it to exploit it for profit.

Solving loneliness with AI chatbots is like solving famine with restaurant menus.

He called the act of having friends “social tasks” because he sees no value in friends, he sees what people can do for him and surrounds himself by those who can do the most

They’re just trying to build something to make you feel like you can trust it, so they can exploit you later.

The only thing worse than creating a problem and selling the solution, is creating a problem and selling a solution that doesn't work.
